HELPING HAND

Place a few drops of Lavender Oil on a handkerchief near your pillow at night to help improve sleep quality, promote relaxation and reduce anxiety and stress levels.

Cultivation Corner

Many homes today do not have the luxury of a backyard. To ensure you don't miss out you can grow your lavender in pots and move them to follow the sun or even bring it indoors for cooler months.

Keep in mind that although lavender has a large, spreading root system; it prefers growing in a tight spot. A pot that can accommodate the rootball with a couple of inches to spare is a good choice. Too large a pot will only encourage excessive dampness.

WARRATINA LAVENDER NEWS

Fabulous February

Our summer harvest is complete and stripping of dried bunches is in full swing to make your own pot pourri.

The gardens are looking refreshed after some rain with the lavenders in the field showing off beautifully with their second flowering.

We are hosting a Trash and Treasure Market at Warratina Lavender Farm on the 24th February from 8am - 2pm.

We still have some stalls available for only $15 per site. Please phone (03) 5964 4650 to book a site. New and old, craft or produce stalls welcome. Proceeds go to the Rotary International Health Research Fund.
