HELPING HAND

A lavender bath is deeply relaxing, mildly antiseptic. It is a thoroughly enjoyable way to end a long hard day with tired swollen feet.

Simply add five to ten drops of lavender oil to a warm bath, then lie back and relax!

Cultivation Corner

The two basic requirements for successful lavender growing are full sun and good drainage.

Lavender is very hardy and will tolerate neglect, but for optimum results it will flourish best if these two requirements are met.

Lavender prefers light soils such as sand or gravel in a dry, open sunny position with good drainage so the roots do not get waterlogged in winter.

WARRATINA LAVENDER NEWS

Happy New Year!

On behalf of the staff at Warratina I wish you a happy New Year!

May 2008 be full of fond memories and laughter.

As New Year resolutions are being promised why not consider having a little more "me time" this year?

As everyone unwinds after Christmas we find the weekend markets are a great place to relax so be sure to check the dates and places of our stalls and come to say hello.

Poem...

"Ladies fair, I bring to you
Lavender with spikes of blue;
Sweeter plant was never found
Growing on an English ground"

- Constance Isherwood, 1900
