Did you know? Coping with the Common Cold

Lavender oil is a prophylactic – that is it can help prevent colds and flu – as well as being able to give a boost to the immune system.

It is however, important to take action as soon as the first signs of developing a cold become evident, by using steam inhalation or an essence burner. Up to ten drops of lavender oil may be used in a burner, or half in an inhalation with a hot water base.

'Lavender – Nature's way to relaxation and health', Philippa Waring (1997)

A hot bath with five drops of both lavender and tea tree oil can be a relief to the body and senses.

WARRATINA LAVENDER NEWS

June update...

June brings a change of colours to the farm with the turn of seasons displaying a range of reds, yellows and bronzes.

We have commenced our weed control and pruning program in the cottage gardens to ensure they put on a full show this spring. Lavandula dentata 'Ploughman's Blue' continues to flower sweetly enjoying the cooler weather.
